style. substance. soul.

Profiles in Design

Designers Today's editors interact with hundreds of designers every year, and through the Profiles in Design series they bring a few of those inspiring engagements to you. Each video features a member of the design industry sharing about their journey, present state of affairs, plus those unique experiences and passions that naturally come up in conversation.

Profiles in Design: Claire Ownby

Scottsdale-based designer Claire Ownby shares her thoughts on the biggest challenge facing the industry, her company's next venture and why she has moved every year or two for the past two decades.
